Hello Melissa:

I am writing in regards to an article entitled "NOW YOU KNOW Large distribution centre want in to west Woodbridge" in the Vaughan Citizen on Thursday June 12, 2014. In it, they advised to contact you with comments.

As a resident of Vaughan for over 13 years, the increase of traffic congestion on the few available roads is simply appalling. In that time, the population has increased from approx. 170, 000 residents in 2000 to the 313,490 residents (as per City's website citing June 2013 numbers).

This doesn't even take into consideration the hordes of people (via cars and buses) descending upon Vaughan Mills and Wonderland on a regular basis.

Getting around the City on time for either appointments or work or trying to take GO transit is often a crap shoot. This is not something residents should have to endure 365 never mind knowingly accept that it will worsen with increased transport truck traffic should these distribution centres become reality.

If these giants want to have distribution centres - earmark lands in the most northerly sections possible AND have them contribute to the costs building of expanding roads BEFORE construction for the distributions centres begin. With 2 giants like Fedex and Costco, surely they can dips into their coffers of profits to contribute significantly to the infrastructure from which they too will handsomely benefit (and might I add increase their ever growing profit margins)

(incidentally roads for the most part are still based on the old concession road gridline plan as developed in the time of the Colonial government for Upper and Lower Canada (Lord Simcoe days)- something that no longer meets the needs of 2014 Vaughan!)

I hope you take these comments into consideration before actual decisions are made. Feel free to contact me.

Respectfully,

Cindy Gertsakis-Zelenyj

(congratulations on your overwhelming victory last night - you and your team have your work cut out for you in Vaughan - with roads an absolute nightmare - see above and the urgent need to get the Vaughan Hospital CONSTRUCTED and operational)
